Project 8

This project was made to basically put all my other projects into one. This was one of the easier projects because all I had to use was Bootstrap and a little bit of HTML coding. It was fun looking back at all the projects that I did. I tested my page on Google Chrome and Microsoft Edge and they both worked fine. I picked out a nice template from Bootstrap that was able to display all the information that I wanted it to. I included a lot of text because all I wanted to do was talk about the projects. There are links everywhere to get to these projects so the user spends more time on the projects rather than the portal.
